I looked for data from Jerry, but his study concentrated around the American Tunnel and above, so we still have a gap from 2005 to 2009.

Thanks

Can you send us something to look at? Then maybe I can talk with the ARSG to see what they have that is not in their public database that could help.

I crunched the data last Friday, it looks like we have good coverage for the time before the treatment plant shut down but the data gap from 04 to 09 is quite glaring. It makes it hard to draw conclusions and/or identify trends within the data. Is there any way we can get the data for this time period?

Thanks

Andrew
